Podcasts - Ted Talks - Short Videos

These podcasts are done by Simon Javan Okelo (African Father In America) - this one was particularly moving:

https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=SPaCav_m7xY&feature=youtu.be

“In this episode, I held a conversation with Omari Salisbury who is the COO and Founder of Converge Media, a leading producer of content for black and urban audiences. The son of the first black-owned photography studio in the Northwest, Omari Salisubry hails from a long line of visual storytellers. 52 countries and counting, Omari is a true global citizen working in media across the continent of Africa, the middle east, and Europe for Media Zone, Clouds Media Group, and Status Communications. No matter where Omari finds himself across the globe, he will always call Seattle home. Omari is a native of Seattle’s Central District and a graduate of James A. Garfield High School.”

https://www.splcenter.org/presscenter/splc-launches-original-podcast-sounds-hate  Season one, produced and hosted by award-winning journalist-producers/filmmakers Geraldine Moriba and Jamila Paksima, will take listeners into communities grappling with extremism. They speak with people affected by hate, including a woman deeply involved in the extremist movement who left and a high school grappling with racism, and hear their stories as they unfold over each 40-minute episode

Deconstructing White Privilege with Dr. Robin DiAngelo

Scene on Radio.org is a podcast that tells stories exploring human experience and American society. Produced and hosted by John Biewen, Scene on Radio comes from the Center for Documentary Studies (CDS) at Duke University and is distributed by PRX.

Season 1 featured a mix of stand-alone and multiple-episode stories; in Season 2, the Peabody-nominated Seeing White, Biewen and collaborator Chenjerai Kumanyika explored the history and meaning of whiteness; in Season 3, Biewen and co-host Celeste Headlee delved into sexism, patriarchy, and misogyny.

James Lawson On the C-SPAN Networks: James Lawson is a Civil Rights Activist with nine videos in the C-SPAN Video Library; the first appearance was a 1992 Convention as a Minister for the Holman United Methodist Church. https://www.c-span.org/per

White Accomplices - Opportunities for White People in the Fight for Racial Justice

The ideas captured on this website, very much a work in progress, have been developed to support White people to act for racial justice. It draws from ideas and resources developed mostly by Black, Brown and People of Color, and has been edited by Black, Brown, and People of Color who were the only people involved in this project paid for their time.

Environmental Racism

Hurricane Ida brought more wind, rain, and petrochemical pollution, by Jake Bittle & Naveena Sadasivam. Ida’s aftermath shows the risks of petrochemical production in a hurricane zone.

UW research shows racism and redlining hurt local wildlife, too
The authors boil down the many human impacts on the environment and connect them to racist policies like redlining, displacement, gentrification and Jim Crow laws. The paper highlights how, when people in power wield influence over the landscape in ways that devalue people’s lives, animals and plants suffer, too — often in ways that further worsen human health. Crosscut.

Systemic Racism

NYT: How Decades of Racist Housing Policy Left Neighborhoods Sweltering. Heat is the nation’s deadliest weather disaster, killing as many as 12,000 people a year. Now, as global warming brings ever more intense heat waves, cities like Richmond are drawing up plans to adapt — and confronting a historical legacy that has left communities of color far more vulnerable to heat.
